Forecast For Strathclyde
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Thursday 11 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rather cold with blustery showers.

This Evening and Tonight:
Clear periods and scattered showers, snow on hills especially over North Argyll where it may settle on higher roads. Strong westerly winds this evening, occasionally gale force along the Argyll coast. Winds easing down in the early hours. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Friday:
Some sunny intervals and occasional showers, but frequent across Argyll in the morning. Snow on hills. Rain spreading to the southwest in the evening. Cold. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Some brightness and occasional showers on Saturday, snow on hills. Drier at first on Sunday, rain developing later. Mostly dry on Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.